

This is the CC button.

The button is relevant to whatever the original creator decides it to be. If a person chooses to follow the creators work, they can click the CC button which allows them to understand the exact copy right agreements the creator has on their product.

If a person agrees to the copyright and follows the guidelines, they can also use the CC as a reference sheet on their own work. The page includes all the agreements to the copyright and a link to the original post and author site (if that's what was agreed upon in the copyright). This allows others to see who the new creator has referenced from and allow them to see the reference for themselves.
